

FCLG release by Victor Rice

It is becoming more obvious every day: We Humans are in the middle of a global reconciliation.

The new generations are rediscovering their alignment with Nature and her primordial laws. In the midst of so much generalization, repeating formulae and industrial futility, a select and growing circle of people are dedicated to maintaining the flow of evolution and peace.

And on the horizon, a vision of hope for all: It's Funk Como Le Gusta in their magic SoundShip!

These acclaimed groove messengers are making their orbit around hearts and minds, wired for constant evolution, with their fourth release, "A Nave Mãe Segue Viagem" (The Mothership Takes Off...)

This influential group of musicians from São Paulo, Brasil was founded in 1998, cutting their teeth at the numerous and unforgettable jam sessions occurring in the city in those days.

Their career has been mercurial: Quickly solidifying their unique flavor of dance-funk, the band has enjoyed sizable success(as well as critical respect), with innumerable appearances onstage, in the studio and on television alongside the biggest names in Brazilian music for the last two decades.

Aside from three records and one DVD, Funk Como Le Gusta have over a thousand shows under their belt, all of which wind up with the same scenario:

A crowd in ecstasy on the dance floor to the very end, riveted by the sound of a powerful and ridiculously tight 10-piece band punching its way through the sound system. Only those who've been to see EWF, Tower of Power, Graham Central Station, Chuck Brown or the like can understand how good a sound system can 'speak' when the band is dropping the beat with a precision normally reserved for watchmakers. This is more than a sound, it's an acoustic phenomenon. The Funk do just that.

And now, the Mothership sets course once again!

The new record brings another batch of raw and forceful dance music, in an authentic blend of old-school sensibility with the modern approach, a hallmark of their sound from the beginning.

In the mix are world-class musicians and production experts from the famous São Paulo Scene.

You are cordially invited to join the Funk on their next mission.

Come aboard - and don't forget to buckle in!
